

WATCH REVIEW-TRIBUNE'S STAR PLAYER DURING WORLD'S SERIES

Baseball fandom in the East Liverpool district today prepared for the world's series in which the contending clubs will be the Pittsburgh Pirates, piloted by Owen (Donie) Bush, and the New York Yankees, under the leadership of Miller Huggins, both diminutive but crafty managers.

The Review-Tribune, in keeping with its custom for many years, will reproduce, pitch by pitch and play by play, all games in the classic on the Star Base Ball Player, which has been erected in front of its Washington street building. In addition, a running description of the crowds at Forbes Field or the Yanks' Stadium, together with all happenings of interest, will be given prior to the opening of the hostilities as well as during the battles.

Direct wires from the playing fields to the Review-Tribune office will carry the story of the struggle for the highest honors in the realm of baseball. The first game will be played in Pittsburgh on Wednesday, commencing at 2 p. m. The Review-Tribune service will begin at 1:30. You are invited to be The Review-Tribune's guest.

WEIRTON WOMAN SLAYS MAN

New Jersey Killer Admits Fiendish Crime

War Veteran Pleads Guilty to Murder of Sunday School Aide

Woodbury Authorities Investigate Disappearance of George Yarrow's Wife and Four-year-old Son, Following His Arrest in Slaying of Pretty Girl, 18.

GARROTED AND BULLET-PIERCED BODY THROWN FROM CREEK BRIDGE

Rigid Inquiry Launched After Woman, Claiming to be Prisoner's Sister-in-law, Tells Officials Man Had Threatened to Wipe Out His Family.

WOODBURY, N. J., Oct. 3.—Authorities were investigating today the mysterious disappearance of George Yarrow's wife and four-year-old son, following his plea of guilty to the fiendish slaying of Rose Sarlo, 18, pretty Sunday school teacher.

Miss Sarlo's garroted and bullet-pierced body was hurled from the 30-foot bridge spanning Mantua creek, four miles from here. Yarrow, 37, a war veteran, pleaded guilty this morning and was remanded to jail without bail.

Authorities began investigating his past as the result of inquiries made by a woman who said she was Yarrow's sister-in-law.

"She told me Yarrow's wife and child disappeared two years ago," said Sheriff Stealton.

"She said that Yarrow had threatened to do away with them. She will return to my office later today and confront Yarrow and ask him what happened to his wife and son."

Accused is Calm.

Yarrow was calm when he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Harry Friant on a charge of murder.

He surprised officials when he pleaded guilty, for under the New Jersey law a person charged with murder cannot enter a guilty plea. A technical plea of not guilty will be entered for him.

After hours of grilling, Yarrow confessed, the authorities say, that he beat the girl unmercifully with his fists, fired two pistol bullets into her body, bound her neck with strands of copper wire, and hurled her, dead or dying, into a clump of bushes under a bridge over the shallow creek.

The girl's body was found by an early morning hiker yesterday. Physicians declared the girl, greatly devoted to her home and family, had been assaulted. This, however, Yarrow denied, although he is alleged to have admitted that he murdered the girl because she resisted his advances.

Forced Into Auto.

Yarrow was formerly a bus driver, but he lost his job two months ago. Miss Sarlo's father, heartbroken, said the man had repeatedly forced his attentions on his daughter, but that she always repulsed him. Once, Sarlo said, the man threatened to kill the girl unless she married him.

Witnesses deny Yarrow's assertion that he "picked up" the girl. Several persons told the police that they saw the girl forced into an automobile outside a motion picture house where she had attended the performance before the fatal ride.

Two Men Found Dead on Street.

AKRON, O., Oct. 3.—Thomas Janytis, 33, of Akron, and Lawrence Thaler, 45, believed to have lived in Sharon, Pa., were both found dead on the street here Sunday. Janytis died of acute alcoholism and Thaler succumbed to organic heart disease, according to police.

OLD "COUNTRY FAIR" ATMOSPHERE IN MODERN SETTING IN PITTSBURGH AS FANS AWAIT CLASSIC

By Ford C. Frick.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—If you enjoy being pushed and shoved and jostled and kicked about by milling throngs that don't know where they're going, what they're doing or why they're doing it, you'll like this town. And you must come over Wednesday for the world series!

If you crave sleeping in a hallway or slithering the business side of a billiard table; if you enjoy taking your meals on the run and your sleep when and if you can get it, if any—Well, you must come over!

If you enjoy the old "country fair" atmosphere in modern setting—a setting where the shell-game boys are disguised as hotel proprietors and the three-card monte experts are running restaurants, then—

This is your town, brother. It is indeed! And you'll like it—even if you can't

LESTER TUCKER INJURED WHEN HIS SEDAN AND TRUCK CRASH

Collision Occurs on River Road During Morning.

CROSSING WRECK

Coupe Goes Over Embankment; Other Cars Damaged.

Lester Tucker, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tucker, Drury lane, sustained bruises about his hips when the Chevrolet sedan he was driving, collided with a truck owned by the C. C. Thompson Pottery company, on the River road at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Tucker, driving east, is alleged to have struck the truck, driven by Clyde Smith, which had backed out from one of the plant driveways. The injured driver was taken to the City hospital by a passing motorist. His injuries were dressed by Dr. W. N. Bailey. The machine was wrecked.

An Essex coach, belonging to David H. Diehl, Pittsburgh, was wrecked when it was struck by a train after stalling on the Pennsylvania railroad crossing at Smiths Ferry at 10:30 o'clock last night. Diehl, his wife and children, returning to their home, abandoned the car a minute before it was struck by a westbound freight train. The westbound track was blocked for an hour by the wreckage. McElravy's wrecker removed the car.

AUTOS KILL SIX IN OHIO

Fatal Accidents Occur Near Toledo Over Week-end.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 3.—Six persons were dead today as a result of automobile accidents in this vicinity, a check up this morning revealed.

The dead included: D. M. Winfree, 38, of Lima; Mrs. Eugene King, 24, formerly of Hopkinsville, Ky., later of Toledo; Leona Brown, 21, of Haskins; A. M. Lawrence, 26, of Lincoln, Ill.; Bishop Carmens, 17, negro, of Bowling Green, Ky., and Benjamin Duvall, 40, of Monroe, Mich.

Winfree and Mrs. King were killed at Lemole, when an interurban car collided with an automobile at a grade crossing. Mrs. King's husband was seriously injured, and was in a hospital here today.

Lawrence and Miss Brown, a school teacher, were killed when a Baltimore and Ohio train struck their machine on a grade crossing at Haskins Sunday. Lawrence was hurled clear of the wreckage, and the girl's body was carried several hundred feet in the tangled wreckage which hung to the pilot of the speeding railway engine.

Six negroes were held pending a coroner's inquest into the death of Carmens, who was killed in an automobile crash in Toledo.

Duvall was killed when the steering gear of his machine locked, ditching the car.

American Federation Of Labor Opens Meet

Interests of Millions of Earners Centered in Annual Convention in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—The interests of millions of earners centered here today as the forty-seventh annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened its sessions to consider the economic and social problems of organized workers throughout the world.

Committed to a policy of constructive development and service to industry, the world's largest convention will affect through its rulings the welfare of not only the American laborer, but of his fellow workers in Canada, Mexico and in the countries of Europe.

Delegates representing every branch and phase of organized labor, will be aided in their deliberations by the counsel of their own members and the advice of state and national figures who are lending their personalities to the solution of labor's problems.

A constructive keynote was sounded for the convention in the report of the federation's executive council, made public today.

"Labor has formerly allowed spectacular incidents in strife to overshadow the most important events of

WIFE SHOOT WHEN JANITOR ATTACKS HER WITH BOTTLE

Henry McDowell, 45, Slain in Quarrel Over Money.

HOME TRAGEDY

Prisoner Alleges She Fired When Man Threatened Her.

William H. McDowell, 45, colored, employed as a janitor in one of the Weirton Steel company's offices, was shot and killed by his wife, Margaret, 38, during a quarrel over money matters in their home, Avenue B Weirton, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, according to police.

When her husband threatened her the wife claims that she left the house and borrowed $2 from neighbors. When she returned she gave a money to her husband, she told police. She alleges that McDowell then picked up a beer bottle and started toward her and that she fired two shots from a .38 caliber revolver. One of the shots entered McDowell's right side, piercing his lung, the other missing the intended target.

The wife also claimed that she had seen a knife in her husband's hand when he started towards her.

The shooting, according to police occurred in a long hallway. The wife fired at a distance of approximately 45 feet as her husband stepped into the hallway from a room in the apartment. Children, who witnessed the shooting, were too young to be questioned.

The quarrel, which ended in the tragedy, started when McDowell is alleged to have requested his wife to prepare their Sunday dinner. The wife asserted she had told her husband that she was without money to buy food, declaring that $3 which he had given her a few days ago had been spent for clothing for their four children.

Woman is Arrested.

McDowell's body was removed to the Hartneck funeral home in Weirton. Captain J. E. Walsh, of the Weirton Steel company's police force, arrested Mrs. McDowell a few minutes after the shooting took place.

Prosecuting Attorney Thomas Hoffman, Weirton, represented the state at the coroner's inquest conducted at the

$5,000 BLAZE SWEEPS GARAGE

Two Pleasure Cars and Truck Destroyed in Glenmoor.

Two pleasure cars and a truck were destroyed when a garage owned by David Southall, Lincoln highway, near Glenmoor, was destroyed by fire at 3:30 o'clock this morning. The loss, estimated at $5,000, is partially covered by insurance.

A Graham truck valued at $2,500, and a Chandler sedan, worth $1,000, owned by Southall, and a Dodge coupe, owned by John Shaffer, employee of the Golden Star dairy, were destroyed. Southall's two machines were insured but no insurance was carried on the Shaffer car or the building.

Southall discovered the fire when the garage was a mass of flames. He called the fire department and, in the meantime, a bucket brigade was formed to save the garage of his brother, George Southall, adjoining. One truck with two men from the Central fire station responded to the alarm, but were unable to render assistance except with chemicals as the building was beyond the water zone.

The origin of the fire has not been determined but one theory is that it started from a short circuit in the electric system of one of the automobiles.

REV. R. W. USTICK RESIGNS WELLSVILLE PASTORATE

ACCEPTS CALL TO CHURCH IN SPRINGFIELD

Minister Will Assume New Charge on November 6.

HERE 8 YEARS

Committee Will Fill United Presbyterian Pulpit Vacancy.

Rev. Robert W. Ustick, pastor of the Wellsville First United Presbyterian church, announced his resignation to members of his congregation at services yesterday morning.

He will preach his final sermon to the congregation, as pastor, on Sunday, October 30, and will take charge at the First United Presbyterian church in Springfield, O., on Sunday, Nov. 6.

His resignation terminates a service of more than eight years as head of the Wellsville church.

Rev. Ustick has been an outstanding member of the denomination in this district, having served for one year as moderator of the Steubenville presbytery of the United Presbyterian church.

In addition he is a past president of the Wellsville Kiwanis club and lieutenant governor of the sixth Kiwanis district.

He was born in 1887 in Springfield and the transfer which takes him from the local church, sends him back to the city of his nativity.

Rev. Ustick has been in the ministerial service since 1914, a period of 17 years. He obtained his early education at Cedarville, where he attended high school and college, and studied between terms, in the summer, at Wooster.

He spent three years in Xenia seminary, which since has been moved to St. Louis, and graduated in 1914.

He took his first charge in June of 1914 at New Kensington in the Catskill Mountains. After preaching there for a year he returned to Ohio, locating at Sidney. Completing three years' work in Sidney, he was transferred to the Steubenville presbytery, taking charge of the Wellsville First United Presbyterian church.

Rev. Ustick was prominent in all civic affairs and projects designed for the betterment of the city, giving no small part of his time to Boy Scout work, Kiwanis activities, chautauqua arrangements and other affairs of a like nature.

A committee will be named to seek a successor for the retiring pastor.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Brisk advances in the railroad stocks characterized the early trading today. All sections of the transportation share market participated in the move, which, however, was led by the high-priced stocks like Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio, and New York Central. Canadian Pacific finally forced ahead to above $200 a share, while Chesapeake & Ohio carried its rally to above 210, compared with last week's low of 175.

Strength and activity of the railroad stocks is due to "switching" of speculative interest from the Industrials to the rails, and, in the process, industrial stocks were freely supplied to the market today. Favorable reports from a few of the well-known manufacturers of motor cars stimulated good buying of Studebaker, Hudson, Nash, etc., but Mack Trucks and others moved downward.

Hudson motor car company reported production of cars in the first nine months of 1927 at 255,000, against 227,500 for the whole of 1926. Nash and Studebaker have already reported record-breaking production, while Packard and Chrysler have been unable to keep pace with current orders. Some concern was felt in the financial district today over the tardiness of the business revival in important branches of trade, and the disappointing showing of September as compared with the same month last year.

Profit-taking and liquidation of active stocks accounted for increasing selling pressure in the second hour, during which the bulk of the early advances were wiped out. Pools in Houston oil, Stewart Warner and other speculative favorites continued to bid up prices, setting the pace which few of the industrial stocks could follow. Cotton rose $2 a bale in the early trading, and commodity markets were steady. Call money 4 per cent.

GRANGE PLANS MEET THURSDAY

Yellow Creek Organization to Hold "Contest" Programs.

The Yellow Creek grange will hold its regular meeting on Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

After the business session, the first of two programs, arranged as a contest between the "Eagles" and the "Blue Jays" will be held under auspices of the former, led by F. C. McPherson.

The "Blue Jays," under the direction of Miss Margaret Smith, will furnish the program at the October 2 meeting.

The contests will be judged on points. W. C. Smith, of Lisbon, and Mrs. Frank Hassen, of West Point, have been chosen as the judges.

At the close of the program the social committee will serve lunch.

WELFARE GROUP TO HOLD MEET

West End Association to be Organized Tonight.

The West End Welfare association, which has for its purpose the promotion of the civic and moral welfare of the community, will be formally organized at a meeting scheduled for tonight in the Garfield school building, Eighteenth street.

According to present plans, a constitution and by-laws will be adopted, these documents having been drafted by a committee consisting of Rev. Thomas G. Berger, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, George Hough and J. W. Metts.

M. C. West is president of the organization; Charles Aughinbaugh is vice president and J. L. Porter secretary-treasurer.

City sewer problems and the proposed $18,000 bond issue for the construction of the Seventeenth sewer which will be voted on in November, probably will be discussed.

WILL DISCUSS VOTE PROBLEMS

MacDonald P. T. A. to Open 1927-28 Meetings Tonight.

Problems of the ballot will be discussed by members of the MacDonald Parent-Teachers association, formerly the Central association, at its first meeting of the 1927-28 season tonight in the Ninth street or MacDonald school building.

As a result of a change in the methods of conducting meetings, subjects hereafter will be confined to one topic, with one member of the program committee in charge.

Mrs. A. B. Murdock will have charge of tonight's discussion. The business session will start at 7:30 o'clock, with Mrs. W. E. Ward presiding.

Subjects to be discussed are: "The Purpose of the Primary"—Miss Isabel Anderson.

"Are the Primaries a Failure? If So, Why?"—Miss Mabel Hickman.

"Can a Parent Be An Interested Parent and Not Vote?"—Mrs. L. E. Lee.

Music will be furnished by the boys' glee club. A reception will be held also at which parents and teachers will have an opportunity of becoming acquainted. Refreshments will be served.

HOMECOMING SERVICES HERE

Large Crowds at First Christian Church Meetings.

With a congregation of 366 percent at the morning services, successful homecoming services were held yesterday in the First Christian church here, featured by addresses by Rev. H. H. Tilock, of Shelby, and in visiting pastors and friends of the church. Services were held in the morning, the afternoon and the evening.

The usual program was observed in the morning, with preaching and Sunday school services at the customary hours.

In the afternoon an informal fellowship meeting was held in which talks were given by Rev. Tilock and other visitors, including Rev. B. R. Johnston, pastor of the First Church of Christ, of East Liverpool; Rev. Armstrong, of Wellsville; James Ralston, Bellaire; Jay McCarroll, Canton; Mrs. Crubaugh, 89 years old, of Hanoverton; Mrs. Fogg, of Steubenville; and Mrs. Naomi Forner.

Special music was featured at all services. Mrs. Don James sang in the morning and Mrs. Lee in the afternoon and evening.

Miss Mildred Armstrong and Mrs. Lester Donnelly gave a special piano and organ duet selection at all three services.

T. C. McClelland directed a large chorus at the several sessions.

Plans and directions of the homecoming were in charge of a committee composed of Rev. L. E. Lee, pastor, John Caldwell and T. C. McClelland.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "HONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

"What d'yuh mean—pot-luck?" asked Mabel.

CHAPTER XXII.

It was not Sally Jerome's way to run away from things that were unpleasant.

True enough, she might long to run from them—thousands of miles away from them.

But she faced them, anyhow. For so young and gay and tender a creature, she had a marvelous courage. A courage worthy of a strong man instead of a little girl of 20.

And so this morning, when she faced Ted Sloan in the kitchen, her head was held high, her chin was up, and there was a smile in the corners of her mouth.

"Don't think that you're being asked to a wedding supper!" She flung the words at him cheerfully.

"We haven't heard a word from Beau and Mabel. We don't even know whether they managed to rout out some minister or other to marry them, last night."

She smiled again as she filled the tea kettle for her dishes. But Ted, perhaps because he cared for her as he never was to care for another woman so long as there was breath in his body, saw that there was no laughter in the blue eyes. A man always watches a woman's eyes when he is in love with her.

"Then why bother to ask me to supper?" he wanted to know, draping his body over the back of a kitchen chair. "Wouldn't you rather go for a drive with me and pick up a hamburger and a cup of coffee somewhere?"

Sally shook her head. "No, I don't want you to spend money on me for a long, long time," she said soberly, rinsing out the coffee cups with cold water. "Beau must have forgotten to give you that hundred I lent him last night. So I'll just let him keep it for a wedding present and I'll make good that check of his."

Only you'll have to give me some time on it. I can give you a couple of dollars at least every week."

She figured that she could. Now that Beau was gone, the household expenses would not be nearly so heavy as they had been. Beau could eat a pound of meat at a meal, and his laundry bills were terrible.

"See?" she asked, looking up at Ted from the coffee-cake that she was wrapping in a clean tea-towel.

He laughed shortly. "Oh, sure, I see perfectly," he told her grimly. "Beau just pocketed that money that you gave him and walked off with it—and you're going to let him get away with it, and pay all his debts for him besides. . . . Well, this is one debt you won't have to pay!"

While she watched him with wide eyes, he took the two checks out of his trouser pocket and tore them into bits. He came over to the sink and dropped the torn bits into the wastebasket under it.

Then, with another quick movement, he locked his arms around her and lowered his face to hers.

He was going to kiss her, too. But suddenly she was away from him—out of his hands like water. And he was left standing beside the sink and feeling very foolish. His face was flushed with shame and defeat.

"I tore up the checks," he reminded her sullenly.

Sally nodded. "Yes, and I'll pay you back the money even if you did," she said quickly. "But not that way, Teddy. I'll pay it back the way I said I would—two dollars a week!"

She saw that he was angry, and she went to him and laid one hand on his arm. "You did a fine thing just then, Ted, and I was horrid to you," she said quickly. "But I just couldn't help it—I don't want—I don't want—"

"You don't want me. I get you!" Ted spoke briskly, and he turned away from her and stood at the screen door, biting on his pipe-stem and staring out at the blue October sky.

"You're the world's best dancer," said Sally, rattling the cups and saucers in the pan. "And you're a good friend to me most of the time. And I DO want you. I want you to come up here for supper tonight at 6, and I want you to take me to a movie afterward—or for a ride. Will you?"

No answer.

"You see, Millie's boss has fallen for her, and she's asked him for supper," Sally explained, marveling at the lightness with which she could speak of John Nye now. "And I don't want to sit here alone with them like an old maid aunt. So I thought maybe you'd make a fourth. And would you go and get some eggs for me if you can find a store that's open? I used the last egg for Mother's breakfast, and Millie wants a chocolate cake. . . ."

"Millie wants the earth and a corner lot in the moon, if you ask me!" grumbled Ted, who detested Millie with all his might and main. "If she wants a chocolate cake for her cutie, why can't she rustle it up herself? I wanted you to go for a drive today, doggone it!"

But he went for the eggs, faithful slave that he was—at times.

A woman always finds a certain happiness in doing things for the man she loves—even if he happens not to love her.

Perhaps that is why so many stenographers in this world toil for some married man who is in love with his own wife, and toil so willingly and cheerfully.

Perhaps that is why so many wives, whose husbands have fallen out of love with them, go on mending their socks, cooking their meals, and bringing up their children with high hearts and certain joy.

But, at any rate, Sally Jerome sang all day as she swept and dusted the house, baked the chocolate cake, roasted the joint of beef, and whipped up the fluffiest of mayonnaises dressing in preparation for the coming of John Nye.

She went downstairs, too, and got some asters from Mrs. Sloan, who did not want to give them to her and showed that she didn't.

"Don't know as they're ready to cut," she said sourly, as Sally followed her out to the tiny square of backyard behind the building.

Sally never would have asked for them for herself. But there was very little that she wouldn't do for Millie. So she said nothing, but stood with her hands ready for the lovely pink and purple blooms that Ted's mother cut for her.

She took them upstairs and put some of them in a low glass bowl on the dining room table, and the rest of them on the top of the magazine rack in the shabby living room.

"Fix up everything to look as decent as you can," pleaded Millie. "I think a girl needs a nice background when she's entertaining a man in her own home."

But she did absolutely nothing, herself, toward making that background attractive. All day long she carried her clothes, her toilet articles, her little slumber-pillows, into Beau's room, and piled all of his belongings into his black tin trunk.

"There!" she cried at 5 o'clock, when the job was done. "I guess Mr. Beau won't bring his bride to that room now! And thank heaven, that I have a room of my own at last! I love you, Sally, but you do get in my way sometimes when I'm trying to dress."

She dressed herself in Sally's pale-blue frock—her best one. And Sally slipped into the old white mull that had been new three years before.

"What do I care how I look?" she asked herself as she looked it up before the dim mirror of her dresser. "John Nye won't be able to take his eyes off Millie—and I'm going to be working, anyway."

She was in the kitchen, slicing lemons for tea, when John Nye arrived. She heard his car slobber to a stop through the open windows, and as she heard it, it came to her that she had been listening breathlessly for that sound.

"Don't you be a simp!" she told herself fiercely, scowling at her reflection in the mirror above the sink. "He's not coming to see you, remember!"

She did not go into the living room until Ted came up the back stairs from the flat below. Then they went in together.

John Nye was sitting in Mrs. Jerome's chair, and Millie was on the arm of it. They were both looking at a pale-pink aster that Millie was holding in one hand.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

She glanced up, her eyes wide and shining.

"Mr. Nye thinks it's so wonderful that I have a little garden here in the city," she said in her sweet, fluting voice. "But I told him I just love flowers, and I've got to have them, no matter where I am."

For one awful second Sally thought that Ted Sloan was going to burst out laughing as he looked down at his mother's pink flower in Millie's hand. Ted had been known to give Millie away when she was telling one of her little "white lies."

"Did you grow those asters, Millie?" he asked bluntly, a broad grin on his face.

Millie nodded weakly, and hurried to introduce him to John Nye. Then she put the aster in John's buttonhole and danced out of the room, before Ted had time to say anything else about it.

"I must help Sally with the supper," she explained with the sweetest little housewifely air. "We always work together, and we get things done in no time."

But as soon as the door closed behind her she went, not to the kitchen, but to her bedroom, to add a fresh touch of powder and lipstick to her face.

Sally put the supper on the table alone, just as she always did.

She was proud of the table, too. Proud of the bread-and-butter sandwiches, tied into little rolls. Proud of the chocolate cake with its sugar icing. Proud of the snowy tablecloth, that she had embroidered years before with her own hands. Proud of the old silver teapot, polished until it shone like glass.

She was pink and bright-eyed with pride when the four of them sat down to the table 15 minutes later.

Everything was going beautifully. The talk was cheerful, the late afternoon sun flooded the room, the roast beef was done to a turn, the salad was crisp and cold.

"I'm glad everything is turning out so well for poor Millie," thought Sally, pouring the tea into her mother's egg-shell china cups.

"I haven't eaten roast beef like this in years!" John Nye said, with appreciation. "Millie said she'd fix up just a pot-luck meal, but it seems to me—"

"Pot luck?" echoed a loud voice from the doorway, and Beau and Mabel burst into the room, banging the door behind them. They brought a heavy odor of cigars, liquor and strong perfume with them.

"Pot-luck?" What do you mean, pot-luck?" Mabel repeated, her greedy made-up eyes sweeping the swell feed.

"I never saw such a swell feed on this table before, and I've been eating here for quite some time! Beans and bread are what we usually get on Sunday night. Ain't that so, Beau?"

Then her glance went to John Nye's face. "Welcome, stranger!" she hailed him. "I'll tell you who I am, even if they don't have sense enough to knock us down to each other. I'm the bride—Mrs. Beauregard Jerome, Junior! What's the matter with all of you? Have you lost your tongues?"

Ready For The Baseball Classic

With the tension relieved by the Pirates' clinching of the National league flag on the day before the close of the season, eyes of millions of baseball fans turned toward Pittsburgh today, where the New York Yankees, winners of the American league pennant, and Owen (Donie) Bush's team began their workouts preliminary to the opening of the world series on Wednesday.

Experts differ on the strength of the two clubs. On paper, the Yanks, who were easily the class of the junior circuit, appear to be the stronger team. However, it is agreed that the Buccaners, piloted by a man who never quits until the last out is made in the ninth inning, are the peers of the older league.

Although the betting odds may favor Miller Huggins' club, who with Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri, of home run fame, appear to have a slight edge, the wise men should not overlook the batting strength of the Waner boys, with their brother act of Lloyd getting on and Paul driving him home. And, too, as Donie Bush figures, the momentum that has carried the Pittsburgh team to victory in one of the closest and most exciting races of the Heydler circuit, plus the skill of a pitching corps that has performed brilliantly over the last month, may be the deciding factors in the seven-game series.

Neither the Pirate manager nor his players underestimate the New York club, for a team that can coast to victory in the American league has pitching as well as hitting and fielding strength, not to mention a crafty pilot. And on the other hand, the Huggins club is not unmindful of the fact that the Pirates have the game's greatest third baseman in Pie Traynor, while occupying the bench is Outfielder Hazen Cuyler, who would be welcomed by 15 other clubs in major league baseball.

However, if classic history is repeated it will be a lesser light that plays the hero role in the coming series rather than Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri, the Waners or Traynor. Perhaps it shall be a second string pitcher or a substitute outfielder or a pinch hitter.

And it is the uncertainty of baseball that makes it the national pastime, and will cause Pittsburgh and New York to be the meccas for fandom during the coming week.

The Prayer Dance

To the "tea dance" and other familiar types is now added something entirely new—the "prayer dance." Kansas City is responsible for the innovation. It is half religious and half jazz, apparently, and is sponsored by a church and a military organization and held in an armory.

The religious aspect is emphasized by choosing Sunday night for the dance. Or the irreligious aspect, if you happen to look at it that way. Anyhow, the idea is to provide social activity that will have a religious atmosphere and at the same time appeal to modern youth on Sunday evening.

Religion and amusement are neatly tied up together so that there is no getting the one without the other. The doors close at 7:45 and do not open again until 10:30, when the services are over. First there is a song session, with a popular orchestra for accompaniment and popular songs along with the hymns. Then there is an hour and a half of dancing. After that, a bugler summons the dancers to religious worship, which lasts for three-quarters of an hour, with addresses, hymns and prayers.

It is probably uncomfortable for the Devil. That is the idea, at any rate.

The combination is so startling that one hesitates to pronounce judgment on it, not feeling sure whether it is dancing or religion that is being denatured, or what the effect of either is likely to be on the other.

Extra White House

An enterprising group of real estate men offer a fine, wooded tract of 1,800 acres in northern Michigan for a "Summer White House."

It would be very nice for presidents, and very nice for the state of Michigan, not to mention Michigan real estate men, if the government would accept the offer and build a beautiful and adequate summer residence there for its chief executive. But it wouldn't do.

No state can monopolize the president. That was one of the things guarded against by establishing the national capital in a separate district.

If there were a summer White House in Michigan, every other northern state would insist on one, and probably every southern state would want a "winter White House" there.

The best way is for presidents, when they leave Washington, to spread themselves around the country as much as possible. That is good for them and good for the country. Done judiciously, it often results in benefiting deserving regions hitherto ignored by inviting attention to them. That has been the case with the Black Hills this summer. And such favors cannot be monopolized.

Anyway, Chicago is awake to her needs, and is spending $7,500,000 for a more adequate jail.

"New Car Models Striking." Yes, pedestrians have noticed that.

People don't care how fast the oil is used up, as long as the gas is cheap.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Diary of a modern Popsy: Up and to a fruit stall and ate standing well high half bottle of fresh strawberries, thence to visit with an old newspaper friend, chair-bound from rheumatism. These ten years, and this day walked to the corner.

Through the town, stopping to see Gene Buck, also John Mc. E. Bowman, and on to Avenue A, where in a little fly-blown stationer's shop I talked to a French lass from Martinique, as pretty as ever I saw. And at the river front I could see drab figures in the prison yard on Welfare Island, very depressing.

A chill in the air and a touch of melancholy and so to my inn to labour. But a depression fell, the like of which I have seldom known, but Bill Hogg and some company came and with much whoop-dee-dee I grew gay again and early to bed.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The All-Embracing Department. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3. — It was only a few years ago that the Department of Agriculture was the baby of the executive departments. It was housed in a small brick building and had a relatively insignificant appropriation. Today it has grown to such magnitude that it employs 20,000 persons, only 4,000 of whom are located at Washington. The others make up the field service which is far flung.

Two executive departments have been created since the organic act of the Department of Agriculture was passed—the Department of Commerce and the Department of Labor—but neither compares in size with the Department of Agriculture.

The Department is a mine of scientific talent. Among its employees are many noted scientists working for low salaries but carrying on their work for the love of it when they could draw several times what the government pays them if they went into commercial life.

The Department might be called a dumping ground for duties which Congress can not classify. If some new service requires expert attention, Congress blithely puts it under the Department of Agriculture. Changes, re-classifications are made from time to time but still the Department has many duties which only by a stretch of the imagination can be called agricultural. It is now housed in an uncompleted but vast marble building and a great number of rented buildings.

The Department has grown so rapidly that it has been compelled to rent all manner of buildings—old residences, old warehouses, stores, garages—until there is a saying in Washington that if one runs into a doorway to seek shelter from a sudden rain he will find himself in the Department of Agriculture. This is slight exaggeration. There are scores of buildings under lease to the Department and, if one includes the structures used in other places than Washington, the total mounts up into the hundreds.

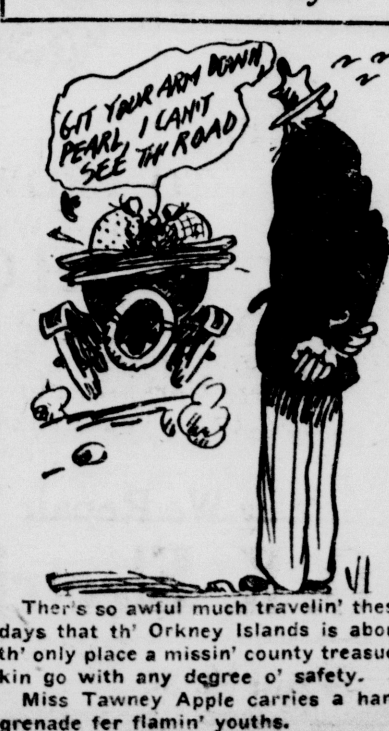

The Department's scientists spend only a part of their time at Washington. In pursuit of new plants which can be made useful in American husbandry, they comb the world. At all times the Department has experts pursuing the most hazardous adventures in far places. The jungles of Brazil know their camping places. Darkest Africa has been explored by them. The most distant and lonely reaches of China have yielded up to them their secrets. They gather specimens and study the climatic conditions under which those specimens are produced and then bring them back to the United States and instruct American farmers how to make use of them.

Varied Activities. The Department has charge of the Federal aid road act and itself constructs roads to show county or city authorities how the job should be done, how much it would cost, how kept in repair, and a hundred and one other things. To show the versatility of this branch of the Government, it also is in charge of experimental work in connection with dust explosions. Many industries perform work which fills the air with tiny particles. Principal among them are grain elevators and flouring mills. These small bits have the faculty of igniting spontaneously and causing terrific damage with concomitant loss of life and property.

The Department has a vast number of field agents who send in data on crop production which, after they have been collated, are given out to the public and are depended upon by the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade, and such organizations to govern the prices of important commodities. It furnishes this same information not only to the markets and the press but transmits it by radio to the farmers themselves to the end that they may be informed concerning the relation between production and price. No farmer can lose money by selling his produce too cheaply because of lack of information. Every day the Department informs him as to the current price of cotton, wheat, hay, hogs, steers, wool, sheep, and everything else he raises.

The Weather Bureau, too, comes under the Department of Agriculture. The Bureau keeps the farmer informed concerning the changes in the weather and also warns mariners of storms at sea. Fruit farmers are told in advance when to make precautions against frost.

Abe Martin Says:

The American people enjoy the privilege of having good and pure meat because the Department counts among its duties the inspection of all packing plants. No piece of meat is allowed to go on the market from a packing plant unless it is inspected and pronounced good by the Meat Inspection Division of the Department of Agriculture. Each piece of meat must show the official stamp of the Division before it is allowed to enter the marts of commerce.

Departmental Publications. All manner of statistics are gathered and published by the Department and the material gathered is made available to the public. The Department publishes a series known as Farmer's Bulletins. These cover the widest range of information and are sold to the public at cost.

The work of the Department is so varied that it is impossible to give more than the merest outline. While one branch is building roads, another is making an intensive study of various sorts of bugs—the boll weevil, the Japanese beetle, the tobacco beetle, and a thousand others and discovering the best means of fighting these destructive pests.

The Bureau of Soils is equipped to advise any farmer what is the best soil for any given crop. It will analyze the soil of a farm and tell the owner whether it has too much or too little alkali, or anything else that is the matter with it.

The Biological Survey makes birds its specialty and knows the habits, the diseases, the advantages and disadvantages of all sorts of bird life.

It is interesting to note that George Washington, himself a farmer, advocated the establishment of a Department of Agriculture by the American Government but all Congress ever did about it for more than half a century was to appoint a commissioner of agriculture with a staff of a half dozen clerks.

The Department has paid its way handsomely. It defeated the citrus canker which menaced an investment of $400,000,000 and controlled the white pine rust, thus saving for the country an asset valued at $200,000,000. The black stem rust is being put under control, saving some 200,000,000 bushels of the wheat it attacks each year. The Department has authority to declare quarantines and thus prevent diseased plants from entering the country. Its only conspicuous failure has been in wiping out the chestnut blight. Although it has made notable efforts to do so the blight has killed practically every chestnut tree in the country.

The Department's Bureau of Chemistry enforces the pure food and drug act and insures to the American people canned and preserved food free from adulteration.

More than 100,000,000 pounds of coffee were produced in Salvador this season.

MRS. W. A. HOBBS AND MISS SIMMS HOSTESSES AT COLONIAL CLUB MEET

Mrs. William McMurray
Succeeds Mrs. Jason H.
Brookes as President.

CLUB MEMBERS HONOR BRIDE

Mrs. W. A. Hobbs and Miss Edna Simms received the members of the Colonial club at its initial meeting Saturday afternoon in the former's home in Main boulevard. The year's work will be on "Mythology."

Response to roll call was the name of a "Goddess," and an explanation of her mythical powers. Mrs. Jason H. Brookes, the retiring president, introduced her successor, Mrs. William McMurray, who discussed plans for the year. Miss Edna Simms, chair-lady of the program committee, gave a short talk on the year's work, after which Mrs. Robert Weinhardt rendered three vocal selections, accompanied by Miss Lucille Orin.

Refreshments were served.

The club officers are: President, Mrs. William McMurray; first vice-president, Miss Bess Adam; second vice-president, Mrs. George E. Davidson; secretary, Mrs. William L. Taylor; assistant secretary, Mrs. James S. Rinehart; treasurer, Mrs. Robert W. Harker; program committee, Mrs. Edna Simms and Mrs. John S. Goodwin.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. R. W. Patterson in Newell.

President's day was observed at the initial meeting of the New Century club Saturday afternoon, when a 1 o'clock luncheon was served in the Broadway Inn, Wellsville. Mrs. John McBane, nee Marguerite Croxall, was an honor guest.

The small tables, at which covers were arranged for 24 guests, were decorated with floral effects, a color scheme of pink and white predominating. Tall candles tied with pink ribbons centered each table, while the place cards were used. The bride's table was centered with a large bride's cake, adorned with a miniature bride.

Following the luncheon, the president, Mrs. Wilson F. Smith, gave an address on "Friendship." A miscellaneous shower was presented Mrs. McBane. The response to roll call was vacation experiences.

The officers of the club are: Mrs. Wilson F. Smith, president; Mrs. W. T. Wilson, first vice-president; Mrs. J. D. Holloway, second vice-president; Mrs. W. W. Sloan, treasurer; Mrs. John Young, recording secretary; Mrs. J. T. Carey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John McBane, Mrs. T. C. Flick and Mrs. Willard Morris, program committee; Mesdames E. L. Carson, H. B. Keys and C. T. Larkins, press committee; Mesdames T. C. Flick, J. W. Vodrey and W. H. Gass, music committee; Mesdames H. R. Thompson, George Faulk and F. G. Fowler, social committee.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. George H. Faulk, Elysian Way.

Baptist Church Society Meeting.

The missionary society of the First Baptist church will meet Thursday evening in the church parlors, instead of Tuesday evening as previously announced.

Harry McConville Host.

Members of the Buckeye club met in the home of Harry McConville, St. George street, Saturday evening. The social hours were spent with cards, after which a three-course luncheon was served by the host's mother, Mrs. Frank McConville.

Miss Lindell Surprised.

Celebrating the birthday anniversary of Miss Marjorie Lindell, a group of friends surprised her Friday evening in her home in Sugar street. The social hours were spent with music, dancing and cards, after which luncheon was served by the hostess' mother, Mrs. H. S. Lindell.

Those present were: Misses Dorothy Orr, Dorothy Thornton, Alys Stewart, Margaret Hull, Viola Marshall, Violet Allison, Margaret McDole, Dixie Deidrick, and Messrs. William McNitt, William McDole, William Kelly, Thomas Shupe, Elmer Kunkle, Danon Pierson, Carl Lamping and Carl Slaven.

Missionary Society Session.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the church parlors, when officers will be installed.

Birthday Anniversary Observed.

Honoring the seventh birthday anniversary of their daughter, Mary Gertrude, Mr. and Mrs. Percy R. Bake, of St. Clair avenue, entertained a group of little friends Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock. Juvenile games were diversions, trophies being awarded each guest.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Blake, assisted by Misses Deborah and Eleanor Mountford. Covers were arranged for Martha Herbert, Mary Ellen Smith, Jane Ann Fisher, Doris Neiser, Frances Goodwin, Deborah and Eleanor Mountford, Mary Gertrude Blake, Clarence Shaw, Howard Kaufman Jr. and Billy Pickin. Flowers and a large birthday cake with lighted candles adorned the luncheon table. The honor guest received many gifts.

Church Circle Dinner.

Circle No. 4, of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, will serve a 6 o'clock dinner in the parish house, after which an experience social will be featured.

Hostess at Birthday Party.

Mrs. L. W. McKenzie entertained a group of little friends in her home, Pennsylvania avenue, East End, Saturday afternoon, celebrating the seventh birthday anniversary of her daughter, Frances, Irene. The home was decorated with fall flowers. Juvenile games were diversions, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. McKenzie. A birthday cake, bearing lighted candles, centered the table. Covers were arranged for 30 persons.

The honor guest received many gifts.

CURRAN TEACHES LATEST DANCES

The term, "Wallflower," undoubtedly originated as an appellation designed to describe, sarcastically, the plight of that person who knows not the intricacies of the latest steps, or fears to trust what little knowledge of Terpsichore he has, to convey to a great extent, his unpopularity, either in ballroom, or parlor.

Dancing is not an accomplishment only for some unusually gifted individual. It is easily an attribute of everyone, and with courses of instruction such as are available at the Curran Dancing Academy, everyone should cultivate the art.

Curran's teaches all kinds of dancing including the popular ball room style, ballet, toe dancing, soft shoe dancing and practically any other form in which the prospective student seeks instruction.

Special classes can be arranged for children and private lessons are given by appointment.

Regular dances are held at the Curran Dancing Academy, 105 East Fifth street, above the "five and ten," on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Excellent music is always guaranteed with De Mar Miller's orchestra.

The Curran Academy has been remodeled and changes in the lighting system also add to the place's beauty and attractiveness.

ERVIN MACHINE PLANT ENLARGED

Keeping step with the addition of the latest types of machinery the most modern methods, and every procedure that tends toward the development of the highest order of efficiency, the Ervin Machine Company has grown with rapid strides toward a place of prominence in this branch of the industrial world.

As a result of their advancement, this company has outgrown its quarters and has been compelled to enlarge its floor space to meet the additional requirements.

In addition, another expert machinist has been added to the staff by C. E. Ervin, proprietor.

A. C. Lang, who has had years of experience in some of the larger machine shops in Rhode Island, Illinois and Pennsylvania and is well qualified to handle the types of work that come to the Ervin company from all parts of the country, will join the Ervin forces in the near future, coming here from Leesdale, Pa.

Lang will take charge as superintendent of production upon his arrival here.

In addition to their work for the pottery and chemical field, the Ervin company also handles general machine work, new parts and general repairs.

FADA RADIO AT HOME ELECTRIC

Well, with checks coming back to their owners like confetti in a windstorm, it looks as though the most of us folks here will have to take in the world's series between the Pirates and the Yankees, starting in Pittsburgh Wednesday, through the old reliable radio.

Perhaps you've got a radio. If you haven't, you've still got plenty of time to get fixed up before the big game. Call up the Home Electric company, 455-57 Mulberry street, East End, and have them set in a Fada radio.

And then you can sit in your favorite easy chair at home, get every play, every ball and every strike, all the color and action, and you'll miss the discomfort and disadvantages, such as the crowds and traffic attendant upon such an event.

Go to the Home Electric Company today. Ask to be shown. Operate the Fada radio yourself. Learn at first hand and beyond any doubt, whether or not Fada radio proves what it promises. This is the only safe and sane way to settle the radio question once and for all, and you might as well do it before the world's series starts.

J. C. BOWMAN SHOP IN NEW QUARTERS

J. C. Bowman's tire shop and servicing station has changed its location but the quality of workmanship and products never changes.

Outgrowing its old establishment in Market street, below Fourth, where hundreds of motorists have learned to take their tire troubles, the J. C. Bowman shop has taken over the old traveler's garage quarters, in Fourth street, next to Middleton's. And here the same old customers who have learned to depend on the Bowman brand of service, will find their way, as well as new ones, because here they have learned the meaning of satisfaction.

At the same time, drivers of Stutz and Peerless automobiles can still have their wants, in the repair and inspection line taken care of at the same old place.

Part of Bowman's quarters is being utilized by Pierce and Weaver, expert mechanics on these two particular makes of automobiles. Pierce and Weaver will continue to operate a service station in the old location.

Bowman is the man, you'll remember, who, besides fixing tires, sells the Firestone tire, made by the famous gum-dipped process. If you're figuring on a new set for the coming winter, it'll pay you to investigate Firestone advantages.

ANDERSON COAL HAS NO SUPERIOR

It won't be long now! Until the world series is over, and the football season goes into the Thanksgiving games, and the air gets crisp and cold, and the snow begins to sift down through winter skies, and we're going to need a lot of coal to keep warm.

Trucks and teams from the William T. Anderson Coal company, in the East End, have been calling on homes in all parts of the city for the past several weeks as prudent citizens stock their cellar bins up in preparation for the advent of Jack Frost before the customary advance in prices.

The old rule of supply and demand governs the price of coal as other commodities, and when the demand hits peak points along toward the beginning of winter, it is natural for a rise in the market.

A lot of people realize this and buy their fuel supplies at the low point. And a lot more people, while cognizant of the fact, fail to act and, as a result, are forced to pay the price when they need the coal.

The Anderson company will deliver to any part of the city.

Give them a ring, 1278 is the number, and they'll bring you your coal from their yards at Railroad and Beleck streets. The Anderson company also operates a transfer and hauling system.

HARDWARE THAT IS DEPENDABLE

The W. A. Horger Hardware company, successors to the East End Hardware company, seeks to acquaint patrons of the district with the meaning of satisfactory service in the hardware business.

The Horger company located at 535 Mulberry street, is open from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. to meet the public's demands in the line of general hardware.

The J. W. Horger company was the original hardware dealers in the East End. W. A. Horger has been a resident of the East End for about 28 years. Since his connection with the original hardware of East End, he has been in the moving and transfer business, and was connected with the Freedom oil works for over 12 years in this district.

East End residents, especially, can buy in the East End and save money, on their quality merchandise. They deliver, also, so be at liberty anytime to phone 1494-R. They would like to serve you and your patronage would be appreciated.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Who is this, Louis Henry Francisco of San Diego (Cal.) who appeared in Washington a few days ago and proclaimed himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination as president of the United States?

The news associations broadcast a paragraph about him, which you probably saw, dear reader, and if so, unless you happen to live in or near San Diego, or have met Mr. Francisco somewhere by pure accident, I'm not afraid to bet a good many to one that you never heard of him before in your life.

In all probability also, your reaction to that paragraph concerning him—if you took the trouble to think anything about it at all—was at least to wonder very seriously if Mr. Francisco wasn't a nut-and-out "nut." Why? Why, for suggesting such a ridiculous thing.

Well, that's what we wondered here in Washington, too. Nevertheless, all of us who had time were sufficiently interested to go down to Mr. Francisco's hotel to find out, for sure.

The verdict was practically unanimous that there appears to be nothing "nutty" about him whatever.

He's a big, good-looking, middle-aged chap—the prosperous business man type—he's in San Diego real estate, he says, and used to be a locomotive fireman and engineer. He talks as sensibly and intelligently as you please. As to his general get-up and the best estimate a stranger can make of his brains, he can give cards and spades to plenty of politicians, some of them in pretty jobs.

The really remarkable thing about Mr. Francisco is his nerve.

It takes a lot of it for a non-professional to step into so ferocious a limelight and risk being laughed at, as he's done. The average individual, even after screwing himself up to the point of doing it, couldn't keep a stiff upper lip.

For an aspirant with a pretty considerable statewide reputation to launch his boom among the home folks, as a favorite son, mightn't be so startling. But to come right down here to the capital and cut loose without a mite of preparation, on a national scale—is a sober, rational person, like Mr. Francisco, apparently, it's going some.

Our San Diego-ite started his campaign not unscientifically. He opened up, my mimeograph to all the newspapers and Washington correspondents, in correct candidatorial style, with a good, stiff punch.

"I am going to try to make the Democratic nomination for president on a Progressive-Democratic platform. If I do, I will be elected."

Nothing difficult or hesitating about that!

Now he's following up, by mimeograph, telling you he is and what he stands for. In a day or two he's to open street-level headquarters in downtown Washington. It will cost him some money, but at that the cost needn't be prohibitive—not if he's fairly well heeled.

No, Mr. Francisco's candidacy isn't taken seriously in the capital.

Yet it's so entirely new a system that old hands hardly know what to make of it. They don't believe it will work, but never having seen it tried out, they can't be absolutely certain.

Of course the ex-engineer will be ignored by all the politicians entirely—but is there any chance he'll make a popular hit?

The betting against it would be fully a thousand to one, but after all, these long shots must occasionally turn up, or what would be the use in fixing the odds?

Always there is compensation. Out where the roads are rougher the telephone poles are smaller and more easily shattered.—Youngstown Vindicator.

Hazardous Life of Jungle on Screen at Ceramic.

"Chang," a motion picture revealing the hazardous life of the jungle, has been brought back to America by Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack, who spent 22 months in the remote interior of Siam making the production.

Heralded by Paramount in such extravagant superlatives as "one of the greatest pictures of all time," "Chang" is utterly different from any photoplay ever made, in that although ferocious animals of the jungle—tigers, leopards, elephants, great snakes and chattering monkeys are the principal actors—the picture contains a basic plot, skillfully embroidered with the conventional dramatic forms of sympathy, struggle, menace, tragedy, pathos and exceptional comedy, furnished by a white gibbon named Bimbo.

"Chang" will be presented at the Ceramic theatre under the auspices of Paramount, which organization financed Cooper and Schoedsack in their extraordinary effort.

The theme of "Chang" is most elemental—the conflict of man against his implacable foe, the jungle, and the hostile beasts sheltered by its abundant foliage.

In making "Chang" Cooper and Schoedsack constantly faced death, not only from the tigers, elephants, leopards and snakes, but from cholera which took the lives of seven native members of their expedition. Schoedsack himself was stricken with a severe attack of malaria which delayed work on the film.

As the protagonists of man in his eternal fight to wrest a living from the wild, the producer chose an heroic Siamese family—a man, his wife, their two children, household pets and Bimbo, the monkey.

Pullman porters want tips banned, says a newspaper headline, John D. must be riding on those trains again.—Lima News.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color. These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, hollow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL WILL CLOSE TUESDAY

Oh, yes, the Waners; These boys have grabbed the town by the ears and Pittsburghers are willing to bet the two will be the hero of the series. Both boys were callers at the Roosevelt today. They met the Babe and greeted him curiously. Little chap, one of them, they made a most inauspicious picture alongside the gigantic Ruth.

"Why, they're just kids," the Babe smiled in amazement. "If I was that little I'd be afraid of getting hurt."

Today's program included a welcome address by Gov. C. C. Young and presentation of the convention gavel to William Green, president of the F. of L. who will preside at the sessions.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis is due to arrive today and will address the convention tomorrow.

MANY GET BACK YOUNG APPETITE

Quick lunches, usually cold, gulped down so the "dinner hour" will not be over before you can do a little playing, is the best way to ruin your stomach, and you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, bloating, nervousness, headaches; and, worst of all, you get thin, pale and weak.

If you must eat that way, always keep a package of Pape's Diapepsin handy so you can chew one of the pleasant-tasting tablets after your meals. It keeps the food sweet so your stomach can digest it.

Follow the experience of thousands who again have a young appetite. All druggists recommend and guarantee Pape's Diapepsin to relieve indigestion and sweeten the stomach in 5 minutes.

DIGS FOR WORMS—FINDS GOLD

While preparing for the last fishing trip of the season, Miss Ruth Lawrence dug for angle worms back of her home at Hatfield, Wis., and found—a two-quart fruit jar containing $275 in gold coins. As none of them bore a date later than 1889 it is believed they were buried by some logger about 40 years ago when a logging camp occupied the site on which the Lawrence farm now is situated.

ambitions are just sudden enthusiasms. Most of us lack the sticking quality in ambition. The thing we think we want to do today we don't want to do tomorrow. The big rewards of life are for those whose ambition, next year, will not have gone stale.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

There is an epidemic of championitis abroad. Some man wants to sit on the top of the flag pole longer than anybody else ever did. Another man is bound to fly faster and farther, and another man insists on breaking the record for eating eggs. Tens of thousands gather to see a prize fight, not so much because they care for prize fighting as because the fight determines a championship.

Silly, somebody says. And yet it's not silly. In that idea are the germs of real progress. Competition has pushed the world forward. The quest for championship sometimes leads into strange paths and to absurd lengths, but the quest is a healthy one.

LOVE.

Somebody writes and suggests a paragraph on love. Nobody can write very intelligently on love. Love means different things to different people. Perhaps the true test of love lies in the desire to give without thought of getting. If you can't pass that test you are not in love.

AS TO BEING SHOCKED.

Beware of losing the ability to be shocked, says Henry Churchill King, great educator. Dean Swift said: "I never wonder to see men wicked, but I often wonder to see them not ashamed."

If there is anything worse than doing evil, it is to feel no repentance. If there is anything worse than a bad system of living it is to build up a defense for that system of living. To make a philosophy which excuses evil and to try and believe that philosophy is worse than many a bad act.

IT'S THE BRAIN.

Gertrude Ederle swam the English channel, and it was admitted that her exploit was the greatest in combined speed and endurance ever credited to a woman. Few today think much about Gertrude Ederle, although she performed a most creditable physical feat. Despite a very small handful prize fighters and others, the world in the long run pays a much higher price for brains. Young folks will do well to remember that.

APPLE CROP HARD HIT THIS YEAR

Indications are that West Virginia will be hard hit as to its apple crop this season. Reports to Washington indicate that the commercial crop in the Potomac-Shenandoah Valley area will be exceptionally light. It may not suffer as much as other apple-growing states but the crop will be greatly decreased.

Prospects are that the apple crop will be the smallest since 1921, and, excepting that year, the smallest in twenty years. The expected total of 123,600,000 barrels is scarcely more than half of last year's bumper crop. It may be further endangered by early fall frosts.

CROWD ATTENDS RALLY DAY MEET

Large crowd attended the Rally day services yesterday morning in the First Christian church. Members of the various Sunday school classes took part in the program which consisted of songs, readings and recitations. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. Melvin McKay.

REPORT FILED BY COPELAND

Light Corn Crop for County Predicted by Weather Observer.

The corn crop in Columbiana county for the current year will be very light according to an official report just filed with the U. S. department of agriculture by co-operative weather observer Lawrence H. Copeland of Millport, this being due to the short season.

"There is very little corn in the shock at this time," the report declares. "The month of September was unusually dry, having followed a dry August causing a shortage of water for the fields."

"Wheat has all been sown and is coming through the ground slowly owing to the lack of moisture. There has been considerable damage to corn in Columbiana county on account of frosts in the low lands. Pastures have been all but burned out and stock is on nearly full feed," the report goes on to relate.

The mean maximum temperature for September was 77.7 and the mean minimum was 48.1. Mean temperature was 63 for the month. The maximum temperature was 91 which was recorded Sept. 15th and the minimum was 30, recorded the mornings of Sept. 21, 22 and 24th. The greatest daily range was 46 degrees, registered September 7th.

The total precipitation in September was 1.01 inches and the heaviest in a given 24 hours was .35 inches which fell Sept. 18th. There were but five days during September when the precipitation was .01 inch or more. September had 16 clear days; 13 partly cloudy days and one full cloudy day.

As a matter of history, the report concludes with the memorandum that the evening of Sept. 23, 1926, a tornado crossed Columbiana county, doing great damage.

Normal temperature in Columbiana county during the last 35 years for the month of September has been 63 degrees.

AGREEMENT MADE ON ROAD WORK

Trustees of Salem township and the council of the Village of Leetonia have come to an agreement whereby the improvement of North Walnut street, Leetonia, will be continued from the village limits, through the township and connect with the narrow brick road extending from Leetonia into Washingtonville.

Concrete is now being poured on Lisbon street, Leetonia, which is a section of the Lisbon-Leetonia road and as soon as the mixer is through on this street, it will be removed to North Walnut street. Two inspectors are being employed on this contract, one being stationed at the railroad siding where the aggregate is apportioned, and another on the street that is being surfaced.

Lisbon street is expected to be opened to traffic on or before Nov. 1st.

Seek to Sell Ground.

David H. Morlan and Lewis J. Kirk, as trustees of the Middleton Society of Friends have filed an application in common pleas court, seeking permission to sell 1.55 acres owned by the Middleton congregation in section 24 Fairfield township. The application will go before Judge W. F. Lones for final hearing within the next 30 days.

DONALD REED AT AMERICAN

New Leading Man for Colleen in "Naughty
But Nice."

A brand new leading man—tall, handsome and athletic—makes his appearance on the screen at the American theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday in Colleen Moore's newest starring picture, "Naughty But Nice."

The new player is Donald Reed. He is six feet tall weighs 160 pounds and has a clear olive complexion, black hair and dark brown eyes. He was born in Mexico City and was taken to California when he was seven. He is of Spanish parentage.

John McCormick, general manager of West Coast production for First National Pictures and producer of Miss Moore's pictures, gave Reed the chief male supporting role in "Naughty But Nice," as first assignment of his long term contract with that organization. McCormick and Millard Webb, who directed this comedy, both were highly pleased with Reed's work in this picture.

Other supporting players include Claude Gillingwater, Hailam Cookey, Kathryn McGuire, Edythe Chapman and Charissa Selwynne.

High Gridders Bow To Akron East, 13-6, After Game Battle YANKEES 10 TO 7 FAVORITES OVER BUCS IN NEW YORK

BLOOR AND WITHEROW SCORE SOLE MARKER

Subs Engineer Pass in Closing Minutes to Prevent Chatout; Kirkham Stars in Punting Duel With Keeney.

Outscored, but not outgamed, and fighting an uphill battle in the final period after the opposition had scored two touchdowns, East Liverpool high school gridders Saturday bowed to Akron East, 13 to 6, at Akron, in their first defeat of the season.

All the drama of the game was saved for the final period, as well as a little of the tragic, after the two squads had played a standoff game for three full periods and a scoreless tie was in prospect.

Big 10 Teams True to Form In Openers

Chicago, Losing to Oklahoma, is Sole Exception.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The verdict on the outcome of Saturday's games—the initial ones of the season—seems to be that, with one exception, that of Chicago, the Western conference football teams did about what they were expected to do. They all won decisive victories, handling their opponents with ease and dispatch.

The four teams in the Big Ten given the best chance for football supremacy in the conference by the dopsters, particularly distinguished themselves. Northwestern, Ohio State, Minnesota and Michigan vindicated the judgment of the experts by piling up big scores.

With "Tiny" Lewis and Capt. Vic Gustafson, Northwestern crushed South Dakota's warriors at Dyche Stadium, Evanston, Ill., 47 to 2.

Northwestern showed considerable drive and power in its attack. Apparently masters of Coach Hanley's new system, the purple machine is expected to derive considerable benefit from the victory, and to be in tip top shape for the crucial game on October 14th with Ohio State.

Michigan Showed Power. Michigan trimmed Ohio Wesleyan, 33 to 0, although handicapped by injuries to some of the more prominent players in the line. But even with substitutes, the Wolverines, under the direction of Coach Tad Weisman, distinguished themselves.

Ohio State played Wittenberg all over the gridiron, romping home with a 31 to 0 victory. The victors, generally conceded to be the strongest among the contenders for championship honors, displayed a whale of an open and close attack. Coach Wilce used a large number of players during the game in order to test the best possible combination for the game with Iowa next Saturday on the latter's gridiron.

Meanwhile Minnesota vanquished North Dakota, 57 to 10. The Gophers had the advantage of veteran gridders in their line-up and "Doc" Spears is confident that his men will have been brought to their best playing powers before the end of the month.

Illinois Looks Good. Down at Urbana, Ill., Illinois revealed great potential strength in winning its game, 19 to 0, with Bradley. The latter, a husky outfit and champion of the little nineteen conference, put up a strong game.

The orange and blue, coached by Zuppke, was not all it will be later in its offense. The desired co-ordination being lacking between back field and line which further practice is expected to bring about. The orange and blue men are doing without the huddle this season. A feature of their offense for the last six years.

Wisconsin defeated Cornell college at Iowa, 31 to 6, doing considerably well, in view of the fact that the Badgers had to master a new system under a new coach, Glen Tishler, who, formerly with Northwestern.

Hawkeyes Need Punter.

Iowa did unusually well in its defeat of Monmouth by a score of 22 to 6. The Hawkeyes' victory indicates that Coach Burt Ingersoll has more strength than he wishes to disclose at present. It is admitted that the chief need of the Hawkeyes is a good punter.

Although they played on a muddy field, Coach James Phelan's Purdue warriors gave a good account of themselves, defeating De Pauw, 15 to 0. The boiler-makers are a scrappy aggregation, and are expected to make a good showing before the curtain drops on Western conference activities this season. Phelan has a young man named Welch who is expected to give a good account of himself before long.

Page Gridders Win. Meanwhile Coach Pat Page took his Indiana gridders down to Louisville, Ky., where they defeated the blue grass eleven from Kentucky university, 21 to 0. The Indiana team is hoped for better achievements than last year's.

The sole team in the Big Ten to be defeated, Chicago, went down gamely before the Oklahoma "Sooners." In the time of 7 to 13. While Chicago's defeat was a bitter pill for followers of the Maroons, Coach Stagg appeared to have more promising material in defeat than he had last year. It is possible that a team will do considerably better.

ARMOUR, FARRELL LOSE $5,000 TILT

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Tommy Armour, of Washington, D. C., is the national open golf champion, but he isn't boasting about it today. Armour and Johnny Farrell lost a $5,000 best-ball match to Gene Sarazen and Macdonald Smith at Great Neck yesterday by a margin of 5 to 4.

Smith's eagle 3 for the first hole featured the victory. The first 36 holes of the 72-hole match were played in Washington.

Heilmann Is Leader at Bat In American

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—Harry Heilmann, slugging outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, probably is baseball's most noted "in-and-out." Starting in 1921, he has won the American league batting championship every other year.

Heilmann won the 1927 crown with a mark of .396, nosing out Al Simmons of the Athletics by four points, but it took some terrific hitting yesterday to accomplish the feat. In nine times at bat against the Cleveland pitchers, Heilmann pounded out seven hits, including two home runs and two doubles.

Other leaders are:
Batting:—National, P. Waner, Pirates, .379.
Pitching:—National, Haines, Cardinals, won 24, lost 10; American, Hoyt, Yankees, won 22, lost 7.
Stolen bases:—National, Frisch, Cardinals, 48; American, Sisler, Browns, 27.
Home runs:—National, L. Wilson, Cubs, 30; Cy Williams, Phillies, 30; American, Ruth, Yankees, 60; Gehrig, Yankees, 47.

Second Place Pays $1,500 to Card Players

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Each member of the St. Louis Cardinals is about $1,500 richer today, as the 1926 world's champions clinched second place by beating the Cubs, 6 to 4, in the final game of the season. Rain prevented the second game of a scheduled doubleheader from being played. The Giants, who beat the Phillies, were robbed by the elements of a chance to tie the Cards. A tie would have resulted if St. Louis had lost the night cap.

The Giants nosed out the Phils in the tenth, 5 to 4. Harper hit two homers. Jack Wilson of the Cubs hit his 30th homer and tied Cy Williams of the Phils for the National league home run crown.

The Pirates lost to the Reds, 1 to 0, but Sprout Waner was the only regular in the line-up.
Harry Heilmann made seven hits in nine times at bat and won the American league batting championship as the Tigers trounced the Indians twice, 11 to 5 and 5 to 4.

The Athletics committed five errors and lost to Washington 9 to 5, but the A's capped the season series, 12 to 10.
The Browns outslugged the White Sox, 8 to 3, and Brooklyn beat the Braves 5 to 3.

MANAGERS UNDECIDED ON OPENING HURLERS

Hill and Meadows Candidates for Honor; Hoyt, Moore or Pennock for Huggins; Clubs Compared.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Yankees are 10 to 7 favorites here today to defeat the Pirates in the twenty-fourth world series, starting in Pittsburgh on Wednesday. It will be the first meeting between the two teams in a post-season classic.

Even money probably will prevail in the betting on the first game, however, as the Smoky City rooters are confident of victory and are saying it with greenbacks. The great stand of the Pirates in 1925, when they came from behind to beat Washington, is still fresh in the memory of Pittsburgh fans.

The rival managers were undecided today as to their choice of pitchers for the opening game. Ray Kremer was to have been Bush's selection, but the crack right hander was knocked out of the box by the Reds on Saturday and lost some prestige as a result. He had been unbeatable for several weeks previous, however.

Hill or Meadows. Carmen Hill and Lee Meadows, Pittsburgh's bespectacled twins, are leading candidates for the honor of twirling the opener. Meadows worked against the Reds for three innings yesterday.

Either Hoyt, Moore or Pennock may pitch the first game for the Yankees. The Pirates are supposed to be sure death to southpaws, but Pennock, New York's veteran left-hander, has never lost a world series game and Manager Huggins is confident he will have no difficulty in stopping the Bucs.

On their season's record, the New York pitchers outclass their rivals by a slight margin, but pitching in a short series may be something else again. Except for infrequent lapses, the Pittsburgh pitchers burned up the National league during the last month of the season.

Both are hard-hitting clubs, and both can murder fast ball pitching. Hoyt of the Yanks and Kremer and Hill of the Pirates depend mainly on speed, so these gentlemen may not fare as well as their records would indicate. Aldridge, Meadows and Millis, curve ball pitchers, should worry the Yanks.

Favorable for Shocker. The Pirates do not exactly dot on spitball pitching, which would seem to be a favorable omen for Urban Shocker, the moist ball expert of the Yankees. Dutch Ruether, who did all of his pitching in the bull pen when Washington opposed Pittsburgh in 1925 because of the Buccaneers' fondness for southpaws, may not get into the series this year for the same reason.

In reserve mound strength the Yankees, with Piperas and Thomas as their "second best bats," have an edge on Pittsburgh's second string hurlers. Cvangros, Yde and Dawson have done nothing for Barney Dreyfuss this year except increase his hotel bills, although Cvangros did hold the Reds to two hits in five innings yesterday.

Batting Work About Even. In batting percentage the two clubs are about even, but the home run hitting of Ruth and Gehrig gives the Yanks the edge. Just as Bobby Jones discourages competition by

'Onearmed' Fighter

Johnny Priston Sensation With One Good Fist.

Johnny Priston.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The old-time fighters used to boast they could lick their opponents with one hand. Johnny Priston, young welterweight phenom from Hawaii, has to do it in every fight. And how!

Priston is possessed of a left arm that for power would be the envy of a middleweight or a light heavy. But his right—it's no fighting weapon. It's normal, but it is more like that of a girl—not a third the size of the left. And it's serviceable in other ways, for Priston passed a physical exam and served a "hitch" in the army. While a soldier he fought his way up to the Hawaiian champion-ship.

Boxing men looked askance here when Priston came looking for ring work. They were sure he would not be granted a license. He was, though, on his Hawaiian record. And he has been a consistent winner and a headliner at one of the local clubs, with a string of knockouts steadily mounting.

The right hand, Priston uses for little jabs and as an effective defensive member. But he keeps working away with his left, usually succeeding in planting a kno with the phenomenally strong left, and all the time in the ring, he keeps that arm moving and tearing in to furnish more action than most welter with two well-matched arms. The crowd likes club fighters, especially those who possess a finish wallop. And Priston, the one-armed fighter, has just those desirable attributes.

Everything has been explained now in connection with the world war with the exception of who won it—Martins Ferry Times.

BELLAIRE MAN
BADLY SLASHEDCharles Huntley Stabbed
During Argument in Weirton Restaurant.

Charles Huntley, 30, of Bellaire, O., is in a critical condition in the Ohio Valley hospital, Steubenville, the result of stab wounds inflicted in his side, police say, by James Amello, 35, Weirton restaurant proprietor.

The stabbing occurred Saturday night and was followed by the disappearance of Amello, for whom the police of the tri-state district have been asked to search.

According to witnesses, Huntley and Amello participated in a heated argument over payment for a sandwich ordered by Huntley in the other's store. Amello is alleged to have seized a butcher knife and plunged it into Huntley's body until the negro fell.

Rally Day Services.

Rally day services were held yesterday in several of the local churches. Communion was administered in the First Presbyterian church at the morning services.

COAL PRODUCTION
SETS HIGH MARK

Production of bituminous coal in West Virginia is setting high marks each month, it is shown by reports of the United States bureau of mines, issued through the federal department of commerce.

During the month of August, the mines in West Virginia produced 2,708,000 tons more in July, while Pennsylvania gained 1,760,000 over the previous month, and Kentucky 1,044,000 tons more.

Ohio production for the month of August showed a gain of 60,000 tons over July. The total production of coal in the United States for 1927, including the week of September 17, was 375,102,000, most of it produced in non-union mines.

MEMORY OF CRIME CLOSES CHURCH

Eighteen years ago, a murder was committed in the little Methodist church at Rattle Run, near Mt. Clemens, Mich. The pastor of the church at that time, Rev. John Carmichael, temporarily crazed, killed a member of the congregation, then killed himself. Superstitious folk quitted the church. The attendance dwindled from year to year until recently the doors were closed permanently.

RULING RESERVED ON INJUNCTION

Judge J. Harold Brennan, of Wheeling, reserved his decision Saturday in the hearing to dissolve or make permanent the injunction brought by two taxpayers to restrain the sheriff from collecting tax levy to pay the claim of the Finley Brothers for work on the high school building.

Preliminary injunction was granted by the judge last week permitting the tax to be collected, but denying the board of education the right to pay the money until a final decision was rendered in the case.

Acting Chief Named.

George Bennett was named acting chief of police today by Mayor Frank H. Riley to serve during the vacation of Chief William Smith.

Building Work Resumed.

Work was resumed today on the combined city hall and fire station near the corner of Fourth street and Carolina avenue.

How THE Other Half Behaves

TOLEDO, O.—Pete Bayers, truck driver, has cured himself of taking naps on the seat of his truck. Pete, tired and cold, curled up on the seat of his truck the other evening for a short nap. That nap has brought him a nice white bed in a hospital. The reason for it is that Pete had a habit of rolling in his sleep.

YEOWL BRINGS HIGH OFFER.

BOSTON, Mass.—A cat that never sleeps or lies down but is constantly moving about, has an uncanny yeowl and purrs like a tiger has joined the domicile of Dr. John A. O'Connell of Boston. It is called Meesick and a naval officer brought it from the interior of Siam. The cat's fame is constantly growing and one offer of $300.00 has already been made.

The Review-Tribune
Offers a Booklet
About Mexico

Why not be well informed about Mexico, one of the great questions of the day? Why not be able to state accurate facts instead of idle theories when Mexico is discussed? Why not be able to understand the news dispatches from Mexico?

Our Washington Information Bureau has prepared a plain, fact booklet about the republic to the south of us, giving a brief history of Mexico, and setting forth facts about the population, states, areas, railroads, mineral wealth, American interests, form of government, and other basic conditions of Mexico.

Every up-to-date American ought to know at least as much about Mexico as this booklet tells. Very few know one-tenth of it. Your copy may be secured through using the coupon below.

Frederick J. Haskin, Director,
The East-Liverpool Review-Tribune
Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith SIX CENTS in stamps or coin for a copy of the booklet, "MEXICO."
